Sir:

This is submitted in response to the Official Action dated December 17, 2004.

The Applicants acknowledge the rejection of Claims 1 – 5, 10, 12 and 14 – 15 under 35 U.S.C. §103 over the hypothetical combination of Tosaka with Maid. The Applicants respectfully submit that the solicited claims are patentable since one of ordinary skill in the art would not make the hypothetical combination and because, even if the hypothetical combination were to be made, the resulting steels would still fail to teach or suggest the subject matter of the solicited claims. Detailed reasoning is set forth below.

First, the Applicants note with appreciation the Examiner's helpful and detailed comments in support of the rejection. The Applicants note in particular the Examiner's frank acknowledgment that Maid does not disclose the claimed N/Al ratio, the amount of dissolved N in the steel and the ferrite grain size. The Applicants respectfully submit that Maid also fails to disclose "less than
